

camp

or prison

time to think the quiet compels pondering over "I"    harken to the voice deep inside you    inactivity arouses thirst for life, movement, work    share knowledge    no meetings, no encroachment on your thoughts, no one can deprive you of family or property    rebirth about what?

typically about crime but innocent of crime about past

errors    did not see my enemies    lost opportunities    and do better reconsider your life reconsider every thing bad in your life    imprisoned for nothing. nothing to repent for state and its laws    but before your own conscience? in relation to other individuals?    can you correct it now?    Kornfeld: no punishment which is undeserved    universal law?    but people burnt at the stake can't be all super-evildoers    meaning of existence is development of the soul    camp torturers have been punished most of all know thyself

thoughts about one's own transgression, errors and mistakes awakens omniscience

85% not guilty

therefore survive at any price

people do get strong and healthy, e.g. no pneumonia    = at the price of someone else    liberation from camp. but into no liberty country    become stool pigeon fork

lose your conscience    OR lose your life    many who choose right    it is the essence that counts, not life    moral of communist film seen in camp: the result is what counts    Russia: fight, power, remove enemies, pig iron, steel and rockets.    it is the spirit that counts, not the result, not what, but how you live essence spirit how reconcile yourself with hard work, hunger and death    where the calm and simple people go    transform your character    your soul ripens from suffering with interest    you get time with interest    patience    you realize your own weaknesses    forgiving, merciful, mild    you are ascending    proud, not afraid of threats, no chasing rewards    dangerous to bosses, nothing on you    verify what is gladness, what is grief. do not rejoice when you have found, do not weep when you have lost other

love life

PvT: sort of challenging thought: if you love life    Well, go on, love it! Camp life - love that too! It, too, is life!    and we ascend

Solzhenitsyn

in my youth I felt infallible    therefore I was cruel    I was murderer and oppressor destroy evil

falsehood of revolutions    destroy carriers of evil    instead of destroying evil good and evil line through in all religions the question: evil inside human being    line of good and evil through every human heart    not through states, parties or classes
